Lord, Do You Really Mean 7x70 Times?

Fr. Jack Stoeger
 Tuesday, November 10
 7:00 pm, via Zoom

This year has certainly brought challenges we could never have imagined. Life as we had known it came to a sudden halt! As men and women called to continually "encounter Jesus and become disciples," we are in need of spiritual comfort and reassurance that Jesus is with us. As we look around, we can't help but notice that we desperately need forgiveness and reconciliation of the divisions in our homes, families, parish communities, our nation and indeed the broader world. Join Fr. Jack in this time to "stop, look, and listen" to what God might be saying to us.

The Apostles' Creed

I believe in God, the Father almighty, Creator of heaven and earth,
and in Jesus Christ,
his only Son, our Lord,
who was conceived by the Holy Spirit,
born of the Virgin Mary,
suffered under Pontius Pilate,
was crucified, died and was buried;
he descended into hell;
on the third day he rose again
from the dead;
he ascended into heaven,
and is seated at the right hand of God
the Father almighty;
from there he will come to judge the
living and the dead.
I believe in the Holy Spirit,
the holy catholic Church,
the communion of saints,
the forgiveness of sins,
the resurrection of the body,
and life everlasting.
Amen.

Know It, or Live It?

Dear Friends,

In last week's gospel, the Sadducees tried to trap Jesus by asking if it was lawful to pay taxes to Caesar or not. In this week's gospel the Pharisees, having heard how Jesus had "silenced" the Sadducees (remember the episode about the coin?) decided to test him by asking which commandment of the law is the greatest. By the way, not all Pharisees nor all Sadducees were "villains," though that's how they're often portrayed in the gospel. Many were devout and faithful though some did try to trip up this Galilean rabbi, Jesus, whose answer was, of course, beyond reproach: "You shall love the Lord, your God, with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your mind."

In any case, the question begs reflection. It's one thing to know the answer to what the greatest commandment is and quite another to examine our own lives to see if we are obedient to it.

In the second reading, Paul writes to the Thessalonians about their "receiving the word in great affliction, with joy from the Holy Spirit, so that you became a model for all the believers ..."

One could say that we are in a time of "great affliction" having had to adjust to the pandemic since last March. Judging by the atmosphere at "mass on the grass" these last months, I think we have received the word "with joy from the Holy Spirit." The gospel and first reading give us the signposts to become "a model for all the believers."

In the first reading, the chosen people are commanded: "You shall not molest or oppress an alien, for you were once aliens yourselves in the land of Egypt. You shall not wrong any widow or orphan." The reading continues with a warning against usury and that the Lord will hear the cry of those wronged, and "my wrath will flare up." I like to imagine what may happen to certain credit card companies ... but I digress.

Jesus answers the Pharisees' question more completely than perhaps they'd expected by adding "You shall love your neighbor as yourself. The whole law and the prophets depend on these two commandments." This is where the exhortations in the first reading come into play, all of them falling under the umbrella of loving our neighbor as ourselves. It's not a big stretch to imagine how what God requires in the readings applies to us today. And of course we have to take that with us in our voting, and in the care we take to protect the vulnerable. What we do matters. God cares. So must we.

Siempre Adelante,

Dominic MacAller
